Dixie Highway Thrown Open To Motoring Public

Corbin to Barbourville Strip Will Be Supplemented by Detour.

MANY TOURISTS

Check Shows That More Than 200 Cars a Day Go South Over Road From Cincinnati Thru Lexington-Knoxville.

FRANKFORT, Nov. 15. (AP)—The Dixie Highway through Kentucky was thrown open to the motoring public today with the opening of the Berea stretch. Joe S. Riggs, state highway engineer, reported.

The Corbin-Barbourville stretch, awaiting completion, will be supplemented by a detour, kept in condition by Dixie Highway advocates of Lexington, who recently appeared before the state highway commission, he said.

More than 20 cars a day are going south over the route from Cincinnati through Lexington to Knoxville, a check showed. Chicago tourists will have a 700 mile scenic route to Florida through Kentucky by way of Louisville, Shelbyville, Frankfort, Versailles and then through Lexington, Richmond, Berea, London, Corbin, Goodbine, Barbourville, Pineville, and Middlesboro.

"Cincinnati-Cumberland Gap Route Via Eastern Dixie: Twenty miles of concrete road from Covington to Walton, excepting short gap where the road is relocated, old road being used at this point. Detour east of south corporate limits of Walton by way of Verona to Crittenden. About 12 mile detour, fair, macadam. Concrete road from Crittenden to Williamstown, 10 miles. Grade and drain construction under contract from Williamstown to Scott county line. Detour west at Cherry Grove, one mile south of Williamstown to Corinth by way of Cordova over fair macadam road. Length of detour is about 12 miles. Poor macadam to Lexington good.

"It is recommended that traffic detour east at a point one mile north of Walton to the Covington-Falmouth-Cynthiana road near Nicholson. This detour is a fair macadam road about three miles in length. Turn south at Nicholson on concrete road to end of concrete and use a short detour to east to avoid construction between this pint and Grassy Creek. Good road south by way of Falmouth, Cynthiana, Paris and Lexington.

"Lexington to Madison county line good. Three and one-half miles south Madison county line poor but passable. Concrete road on to Richmond, waterbound macadam reconstruction from Richmond to Kingston. Kingston to Berea under construction. Detour via Cole Ave., Detour good. South of Berea, Goffold Cane road, traffic detour.

KNOXVILLE WINS OVER LOCAL TEAM

Middlesboro high school went down to defeat before Knoxville high Friday afternoon to the tune of 20 to 0. Middlesboro were beaten before they entered the contest. They were suffering from an inferiority complex which they were never able to shake off during the whole game. Four of their good men were out of the game and this served to take the spirit out of the remaining players.

The game was an exhibition of straight football. Evans, Sewell, and Haynes were the luminaries of the local aggregation. Pinkie Walden, the much touted Knoxville boy was a great disappointment to the fans. They expected to see a sensational player and in place of that they saw a very wiry young man who knew football but did not startle the stands with any thrilling runs. Dutch Masters the doughy back was easily the outstanding player on the opposing team.

Middlesboro braced themselves in the second frame and held them scoreless. At one point in the play they held them for four downs on the two yard line.

Considering the handicaps which Middlesboro were forced to play under they should be commended for the good showing which they made.

Morse's Portraits Are In Big Demand

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 15.—(AP).—It is not generally remembered today that Samuel F. B. Morse, founder of the American system of the magnetic telegraph, was a portrait painter, in his early days, considerable and deserved reputation. In his generation he was regarded with Gilbert C. Stuart and Thomas Sully as a great artist. In later life his inventions in the electric field were of such magnitude that he is associated largely as an inventor in the public mind.

The Art Alliance of Philadelphia has decided to hold an exhibition of the portraits painted by Morse, and this will be the first public effort to bring before the American public his artistic achievements. To this end the Alliance is preparing a catalog of Morse's portraits, and endeavoring to make the list complete. It feels there may be a number of his pictures in the country of which it has as yet no record.

The exhibition probably will be held in Philadelphia as soon as the Morse portraits can be located and assembled.

BIG FIRE RAGES IN JERSEY CITY MFG DISTRICT

Fire Still Burning In a Factory of American Sugar Company.

FORTY ARE HURT

Cause of Fire Undetermined, Fire Chief Says—Acid Explosion Hinders Firemen's Fight.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Nov. 15. (AP)—Doubt is expressed that the cause of yesterday's million fire in the heart of the industrial district, Fire Chief Boyle. Falmes are still raging in the ruins of the eleven story factory of the American Sugar Refining Co.,

The explosions of acid fumes from the salt petre factory of the Bettelle & Renwick Co., hampered firemen all night. Most of the firemen injured yesterday left the hospital today. The conditions of none of them are serious. Two city blocks were raised by the fire.

Fire Chief Boyle estimated the damage at approximately $1,000,000. The cause of the fire has not been determined.

Des Moines, Nov. 15. (AP) Daniel Steck, democratic candidate for the senate against Senator Brookhart in recent election, announced today that contest for the seat would be made on the grounds that sufficient votes were cast for him to overcome Senator Brookhart's small majority but apparently had not been counted by election officers.

Fish May Be Trailed Like Motor Cars

PALO ALTO, Cal., Nov. 15.—(AP).—Fish can be trailed in their wanderings around the oceans in a manner not unlike police methods of tracing automobiles by their license numbers, according to Charles H. Gilbert, professor of zoology at Stanford University.

Professor Gilbert explains that "scales render a report on the bringing-up of the fish as well as furnish birth certificates and automatic age recorders, and show the approximate weight and size at any time during its past growth."

A few scales arescraped from the back of a salmon and stuck in a book opposite a number. A small aluminum tag bearing this number is clamped on the fish's tail and it is thrown back into the water. Under Dr. Gilbret's direction more than 10,000 salmon were tagged in this way last year.

Find Fragments of Prehistoric Beast

LAS ANGELES, Nov. 15.—(AP).—The collection of fossilized bones at the LosAngeles museum, belonging to sundry animals that lived more than 30,000 years ago, was augmented recently by the lower jaw and a gigantic molar of a Columbian elephant, a type of prehistoric creature of which fragmentary remains have been discovered only once before in southern California.

The specimens were unearthed at a depth of 60 feet in a gravel pit. The face of the molar, which is nearly eight inches long, is covered with thick plates of enamel, while the jaw bone, which had been broken off, has a length of 18 inches. Both tooth and jaw were petrified. Their original owner lived in the Pleistocene period, in the opinion of Dr. W. A. Bryan, director of the museum.

MARION, O., Nov. 15, AP) Mrs. Warren G. Harding is reported near death at White Oaks Farm.

MARION, O., Nov. 15. (AP)—According to a bulletin issued before noon today by Dr. Carl Sawyer, her physician, Mrs. Warren G. Harding was somewhat better with pulse stronger. It is reported she has been holding her own and gaining a little. She took nourishment this morning and went to sleep again.

MARION, O., Nov. 14. (AP)—The condition of Mrs. Florence Kling Harding was reported tonight as worse in a bulletin issued by her physician Dr. Carl W. Sawyer. He said Mrs. Harding suffered two slight "air hunger spells" today similar to one last night when she breathed only with extreme difficulty.

The bulletin read:

"Mrs. Harding had a very miserable day and is miserable tonight. She has failed considerably during the last 24 hours."

Vast Prairie Had Only 19 Voters

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Nov. 15.—(AP).—Stargis and Faith are the two principal towns in Meade county, South Dakota. At the election November 4 the residents of both towns voted on the same candidates for sheriff, auditor and other county officials down to coroner.

Yet the two cities are 115 miles apart as the crow flies. Stargis, the county seat, is in the eastern fringe of South Dakota's Black Hills, and is tributary by rail to Sioux City, Iowa and Omaha, Neb. Faith, its sister city, is in the heart of the cattle country, and is tributary by rail to the Twin Cities.

Meade county contains 3,491 square miles of territory.

Armstrong county reports having done its mite in the statewide get-out-the-vote campaign, and anticipated a record ballot, although all it had to do was return 19 votes from its single precinct.

Mrs. Lydia Locke Marks (left), former wife of Arthur Hudson Marks, millionaire tire manufacturer, admitted on the witness stand she had taken from an institution in Kansas City. The judge ordered in a New York court that the baby she said was Marks' son was one the child returned there. The couple are seen here, with another baby, Paul Carew, they adopted in 1922. This picture was taken soon afterward.

EXTORTION PLOT IS LIKE FRANKS CASE

Two Held For Threatening Lives of Chicago Woman.

WANT THOUSANDS

Letters Modeled Along Line of Leopold-Loeb Letters Written to Father of Young Franks.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15. (AP)—Two men were held today and another sought as alleged instigators of an extortion plot which threatened lives of Mrs. Amanda Huehl, formerly prominent in Order of Eastern Star, and her seventy one year old mother. The letters were modeled after those written by Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb in Franks case, demanded $10,000 ransom and threatened death in event the sum was not paid.

The names of the men arrested were not disclosed by officials making the arrest.

WOW! OH BOY; SNOW!

Cannot Make Arrest On Suspicion Alone

FRANKFORT, Ky., Nov. 15.—(AP).—An officer cannot arrest on mere suspicion without knowledge of the facts, the Court of Appeals has held since its convening in fall term.

While an officer need not be in possession of all details of concealed offense being committed, in his presence, in order to arrest without warrent, he may not make such arrest on mere suspicion and without any knowledge of facts, the court held, in opinion of Judge McCandless, reversing the judgment of the Laurel Circuit Court which convicted a man named Catching of unlawfully transporting intoxicating liquors, with J. C. Gray, town marshal of London, Ky., the only witness.

The marshal learned Catching had gotten a buggy at a livery stable and gone to the country. Without procuring a warrant, the marshal went out and undertook to stop the horse. He flashed a flashlight. The horse shied. The buggy tipped. Catching was thrown out. He tumbled over an embankment. The marshal found Catching clutching a jar. It contained whisky.

The marshal's action "was illegal in its inception and consummation," Judge McCandless declared. "In making such illegal arrest by a fortuitous circumstance the evidence he sought was uncovered before the arrest was accomplished."

The lower court judge should have given a peremptory instruction to find the defendants not guilty, the higher court held.

Denver Holds Three-Round Boxing Bouts

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 15.—(AP).—Denver is said to be the only city that has three-round boxing. Longer distance bouts, ten, twelve and fifteen-round affairs, were offered until about two years, when District Attorney Philip Van Cise clamped down the lid on such contests. Later he granted permission for three-round matches, allowing a fourth round if necessary to determine a victor.

The district attorney warned the promoters that contestants must not be paid more than $35. Mills longer than four rounds or those where the pugilists receive more than the stipulated amount he construes as "prize fights." The others he contends may be termed "boxing exhibitions" and held within the state law.

European Waiters Must Be Versatile

LONDON, Nov. 15.—(AP).—Swiss hotel waiters called upon to deal each year with an increasing number of English-speaking tourists, will in the future have an opportunity for a thorough training under famous English masters of the profession, while English waiters may have a similar training in Switzerland under a exchange agreement just made public by the ministry of labor.

"Two hundred Swiss waiters will be sent to certain approved London and English resort hotels with the definite idea of learning the English language and methods, and a similar number of English waiters will be sent to Switzerland. It is possible that all classes of hôtel servants, including cooks and chambermaids, will be included in this year's quota.

May Measure Boats By Uniform Method

LONDON, Nov. 15.—(AP).—The continuation of the existing International rule of yacht measurement was considered recently by a conference of the International Racing Union presided over by Sir W. Burton, vice-president o fthe Yacht Racing Association, who said there was a universal wish to evolve a rule that resulted in a wholesome boat without unnecessary underbody. He was delighted to see an American representative present to give first-hand information about their universal rule.

Professor Poor, of New York, said he considered the American rule superior to that of the Union as, in his opinion, it produced a better all-round boat and not one built to one particular strength of weather only.

Johan Ankor, Norwegian designer, said he thought it was generally agreed that the international rule for yachts up to 12 meters had so far been satisfactory and proposed that it be continued. This proposal was carried.

Captain von Heidenstan, Sweden, proposed a committee of delegates —one from Great Britain and one from Sweden—be appointed by the conference to confer with Professor Poor for the discussion of 8th rules, and that this committee should have power to deal with the question at their will. This was agreed to.

Dies Suddenly at Five O'clock On Saturday Morning.

FRIENDS SHOCKED

Was Known As a Whole-Hearted Christian Gentleman and Held the Respect of All Who Knew Him.

W. L. Buchanan died suddenly about 5 o'clock this morning at his home on Exeter avenue, of cerebrael hemorrage. He had been apparently as well as usual until late last night when he was taken ill but had become better and retired. Early this morning the family was awakened by his suffering and before a physician arrived he was dead.

William Lackland Buchanan was born March 14, 1856, in Boone county, Missouri. He was a son of Jerry T. and Zarelda Lackland Buchanan. At an early age the family came to Kentucky where he received his education in the public schools, later entering Transylvania Bible college, Lexington, to prepare for the ministry. His first charge was the First Christian Church of Toronto, Canada. Later he preached two years in Missouri. Again returning to Kentucky, he came to Middlesboro to accept the pastorate of the local Christian Church in 1904. He also served as pastor of the Pineville Christian church. Several years ago, Mr. Buchanan retired from the ministry and engaged in business.

Mr. Buchanan was married June 25, 1885, to Miss Annie E. Rawlings of Shelbina, Mo., who survives him. Besides his widow, seven children also survive him, being Ralph W. Buchanan, Union Hill, N. J.; A. Rawlings Buchanan, Long Beach, Calif.; Misses Lelia G. and Ruth C. Buchanan; Mrs. Albert T. Seale, Mrs. W. Harmon Burke, Mrs. Harry A. Campbell of this city. Three children died in infancy. Also surviving him are one brother, J. M. Buchanan, of Bedford, Ky., and two sisters, Mrs. W. T. Ashby, Milton, Ky.; Mrs. S. A. Donaldson, San Miguel, Calif.

On December 23, 1916, he was stricken with paralysis from which he had never fully recovered, though he was able to be out and mingle with his friends. The immediate cause of his death, however, was cerebrael hemorrage.

Always congenial and a whole-hearted Christian gentleman, Mr. Buchanan was universally liked by all who knew him. His death comes as quite a shock to his friends. He was a member of the Masonic lodge of this city.

Funeral services will be conducted at the First Christian church Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock by the pastor, Rev. A. B. Rogers, and will be assisted by Rev. W. [illegible] of Seymour, Ind.

THE G. O. P. READ THE SIGNS

Some of the self-appointed grand jurors investigating the democratic disaster are as short-sighted as they are ungracious. They are reviewing the conduct of the campaign, as though Mr. Davis or Mr. Shaver could have uttered some incantation or performed some legerdermain by which a plurality of nearly 7,000,000 votes would have been made to disappear. Mr. Davis did splendidly and showed a sportsmanship and highmindedness that have increased the respect of the American people for him. Mr. Shaver may not have been as active as his republican rival, Mr. Butler, but he had, at the very most, only $1 to spend for every $5 Mr. Butler could lay out.

The democratic convention likewise is blamed—and not without some reason—for destroying by its wrangles the enthusiasm and the oneness of the party. The two-thirds rule is indicted for prolonging the convention. C. W. Bryan is adjudged a handicap. The defeated candidates are charged, in some instances, with falling conveniently sick in order that they might not be compelled to appear in public for Mr. Davis.

When these factors are examined in their rightful bearings and in an unprejudiced spirit, some of them will be found to be good schoolmasters for democrats. The two-thirds rule, in particular, should be studied most thoroughly. But when every failure, every handicap, every mistake of judgment is set down at the maximum in the reddest of ink, the account is not balanced. All the explanations are of no value in fact, when set against the stubborn truth that the majority of Americans favored a conservative policy and wanted nothing so much as to be let alone. The republicans read the signs of the times much better than the democrats did. Last autumn the party augurs interpreted the omens to indicate that the average voter wanted to hold his job, to draw his pay, to have his pleasure and not be troubled about new policies and excitements.

Satisfied that this was the trend of the public mind, the G. O. P. declared itself for conservatism. President Coolidge, in his annual message to congress, arrayed himself without qualifictaion on the side of those who favored no change. The day that message was delivered, as it now seems, Calvin Coolidge was elected president of the United States. Nothing that happened thereafter, not even the exposure of all the nauseous details of the cabinet scandal, could offset the advantage the republicans gained by sensing correctly the trend of public opinion in the United States. Put, therefore, in the simplest term, democratic defeat is due more than anything else to the shrewdness with which the republicans judged the outlook.—Richmond News-Leader.

Did You Ever Stop to Think

By E. R. Waite, Secretary, Shawnee, Okla., Board of Commerce.

THAT lack of co-operation in some cities has killed them so dead that strangers in the city are hardly conscious of the fact that they are in a city.

THAT it is quite possible to be a good citizen and a good booster at the same time.

THAT the fact of the matter is, a good citizen means a good booster.

THAT in some cities, the meetings of the civic organizations look like a convention of mutes.

THAT they never should get into such a condition that the newspapers have to prod them all the time to keep them awake.

THAT they should follow the example set by the newspapers.

THAT the newspapers are always running true and sure.

THAT they are always boosting and helping to build the home city.

THAT newspapers have a reputation for progress and live up to their reputation.

THAT they are leaders in a community.

THAT if some cities would learn to follow their leaders, they would grow faster.

HUNT'S DAILY LETTER

BY HARRY B. HUNT
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—No medium's cabinet, with its spooky materializations, ever presented a more intriguing mystery for the curious than does the Coolidge cabinet for the next administration.

How many new faces will be revealed in the president's new official family, and whose, has become the subject of wildest speculation.

Whereas pre-election prophecies had forecast the supposedly certain retention of Charles Evans Hughes as secretary of state, in case Coolidge was re-elected, it is now hinted that Coolidge will rebuild his cabinet from the top down, beginning with Hughes, and that with only two possible exceptions the next cabinet will be built of new timber throughout.

THE Hughes situation, according to gossip in official circles, would involve a promotion entirely to the secretary's liking.

Hughes has had his fling at the presidency and there is little likelihood of a convention's lightning striking him again. He has made a record as secretary of state of which he and his party are proud. Another term might mar, but could add but little to his reputation as a cabinet chief.

In this situation, Hughes is said to look with favor, if not with actual longing, toward the old seat back on the Supreme Court bench. That more than any other possible public position would provide for his future a properly dignified, exalted and remunerative position.

A lifetime job at $1000 a month, even figured on a purely material basis, is better than a four-year term at $1000 per. And as for honor, dignity and prestige, a Supreme Court justice far outranks a mere cabinet member.

But with Hughes out as secretary of state, who could take his place?

Ambassador Kellogg, it has been suggested.

But Coolidge will not have to look that far to find a willing and ready candidate.

Right here in Washington, ready to step into the State Department at any time, thoroughly familiar with State Department policies and diplomatic procedure, having worn silk knee breeches himself at the Court of St. James, is Col. George Harvey.

Harvey surrendered his post at London in order to return to this country and win the election for the Republican party. He is too modest to deny that his slogan "Coolidge or Chaos" turned the trick.

And if Coolidge believes in gratitude as well as common sense, the friends of "Col. George" believe there is but one thing to do.

"Who shall run the State Department?" they ask.

"Let George do it."

THE very day after President Coolidge was granted another leave on the White House he was asked to consider the cases of 6000 Washingtonians threatened with eviction by their landlords!

Louisville to Have Dental Convention

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 15.—Big as is the convention of the American Bottlers of Carbonated Beverages, now enjoying the city's hospitality, it will be surpassed by the mammoth convention of the American Dental Association, which is to meet in Louisville next September or October. Between 8,000 and 10,000 dentists are expected to come for the gathering.

Louisville, the victor over many other cities in the race for the 1925 molar meeting, secured it through untiring efforts of more than sixty dentists from Louisville convention and publicity league.

PEPPY MEETING HELD BY SCOUTS

The Boy Scouts of the First M. E. Church, South, held their second meeting last night at Kentenna Hall. The session was opened with a regular scout form and was followed by a scout round table discussion of scouting prospects in Middlesboro.

After the business meeting a few snappy scout yells were given which added a great deal of pep to the meeting. Some very interesting and exciting stunts were pulled off by the members. A human tower, formed by six scouts was the most interesting event of the evening.

The leaders of this splendid troop of young fellows have planned a scout program for the year that would interest any red-blooded American boy.

This troop has but a few vacancies and the boys who are interested in scouting had better hustle if they desire to join this troop or some other fellow will put them to it.

The next meeting will be held at the scout hall Friday night at 7 o'clock. Boys, don't miss this opportunity to take advantage of this program of physical and mental development.

Pairings for Metropolitan Trophy Have All Been Arranged. Professional.

The pairings for the Metropolitan Trophy have all been arranged by the Pro and each player given the proper handicap. The play in this will be match and the first round must be played by Nov. 22. The Pro has paired forty players which should bring out all the golfers as this is a handsome trophy and the playing should be the best that the club members have done for some time. A partial list of the players have been posted in Lee's Drug store and the pro will finish just as soon as he is able to ascertain what handicaps the other entries are entitled to.

Winter golf rules will govern this match which should be a big advantage to the majority of the golfers. The directors hope to have this match over and the prize awarded to the winner by Christmas and this will be the final trophy that will be awarded this year. The Middlesboro County Club has had a very successful year from the point of tournaments having played the Ky. State in June, the K. T. V. in October. The Flag Day Trophy on Armistice Day and the Metropolitan Trophy which is now in the playing off.

RIVAL LEADERS OF CIVIL WAR ONCE FRIENDS

COUNTRY DIVIDED

China, With Large Population Has Been In Chaotic State Since Overthrow of Manchu Dynasty.

SAN FRANCICO, Nov. 15.—(AP).—"What's it all about?"

This question is asked by the average newspaper reader who glances casually at an occasional front page account of the civil war in China. For the benefit of those who are not students of Far Eastern affairs, the following explanatory digest, as gleaned from the various news reports o fthe Chinese situation, is given:

China, with its more than 400,000,000 population, has been in more or less chaotic state since the overthrow of the Manchu dynasty in 1911 and the formation of the Chinese Republic. Chinese presidents have come and gone, the country has been divided into warring factions headed by "tuchuns," or military provincial governors, and a large percentage of the population has been constantly under arms.

General Chang Tso-lin and General Wu Pei-fu, former friends but now bitter enemies, are the two outstanding figures in the current controversy. These two leaders joined forces in 1920 to overthrow the famous Anfu club, a monarchist organization which threatened the new government With Tsao Kun, the last Chinese president, then inspector general of Chihli, General Chang became the controlling power of Peking.

General Wu permitted things to continue until 1922, when, declaring Chang was establishing a military censorship in the capital, he drove the latter back to Manchuria Chang began at once to build up an army, manufacture munitions and have his officers trained in modern military tactfced For two years China has expected a renewal of hostilities between the two "Two somewhat inconspicuous tuchuns "started the fireworks." In the latter part of August, General Chi Shieh-yuan, military governor of Kiangsu, apparently with the approval of Tsao Kun, attacked the forces of General Lu Yung-Hsiang, the Chekiang military governor in control of Shanghai, and with the aid of General Wu Pei fu's forces ,finally took that city.

In the meantime General Wu decided it was time to eliminate Chang Tso-lin and thus bring about a reunification of China. Gereal Chang, the Manchurian "war-lord", decided at about the same time that General Wu should be eliminated. So Chang declared war against the Peking forces and started his army toward Chihli He met Wu's troops outside the great Wall and fighting continued for several weeks over a front of several miles. The most sanguinary battle took place not far from Shanhaikwan, near the eastern border of Chihli.

With varying reports of success coming from the headquarters of both leaders, Feng Yu-hsiang, known as the "Christian General," recently hurled a bombshell into controversy by appearing at Peking with his troops and announcing that Tsao Kun must resign as president, General Wu be banished to Thibet and peace made with Chang Tso-lin.

General Feng, with the best paid and best equipped troops in the Chihli forces, had been sent to the front to hold back Chang's brigades .Apparently Chang and Feng arrived at an understanding and the next announcement was from Peking where the "Christian General" had taken control.

All sorts of reports emanated from the capital. It was said General Wu had fled with his troops to Tsingtao, Shantung; that Tsao Kun had resigned, that Tuan Chi Jui ,the powerful former Anfu leader would assume charge of the government, and that a real reunification of China would take place.

It later developed that Wu had not fled to Tsingtao. Instead ,the Chihli leader and his forces appeared midway between Tientsin and Peking and entrenched preparatory to battle to oust the "Christian General" from the capital. It appeared that the feud between Chang and his enemy was far from being settled.

Last reports were to the effect that General Feng had suggested a conference with General Wu with the object of bringing about some sort of an adjustment between the latter and General Chang. At that time the whereabouts of Chang had not been made known.

General Wu's claim is that Chang Tso-lin is in reality a monarchist and an outlaw at heart and that, if he should gain control of the Peking government ,he would attempt to place the "Boy Emperor" back on the throne and restore the Manchu dynasty. Chang declares that Wu is the obstructive element in the work of reorganizing China and that President Tsao Kun was not elected by the people but by a parliament that was bribed.

EDUCATION WEEK TO BE OBSERVED

Next Week Is Set Aside For the Purpose of Considering Schools and Their Problems.

American Education Week, November 17-23 is the one time in all the year when the entire Nation is called upon to dedicate itself anew to the great task of universal education; to see and know the schools, to consider in a public way the big problems of education, and to join in appreciation of its achievements.

The schools themselves have a truly remarkable opportunity to teach each boy and girl his or her responsibility as a citizen in helping to maintain an education system which will perpetuate the best in the life and ideals of the Republic.

During this week, November 17th to 23rd, let every community evaluate its education resources and needs Let parents visit teachers and teachers visit parents in an effort to solve the common problems of childhood. Let the week be a time of new understanding and new vision on the part of the entire American people of the part that education has played, is playing, and must of necessity play in the life of our great Nation.

A wave of enthusiasm and interest in behalf of public education will sweep this great Commonwealth with such terrific force that the effects thereof will be felt not only in the immediate future but throughout the coming generations, when every citizen does his full duty in supporting Free Public Schools

CARE OF FOOD IN THE HOME

Sunlight, Air Dust and Germs All Unite to Destroy the Food Supply.

What care do you give your food supply after it has arrived at your home? To me, that is an important question and one that has a strong bearing on thrift. I have been very much impressed in my dealings with several of the National food producers where products are handled commercially, with minute attention given to their choice of foods, the care in preparing and the scientific accuracy in cooking them.

They have found it necessary to study all these things to insure the best quality and the most economic results. In handling foods commercially a waste in food value augments the cost of food production, and should therefore, be reduced to the smallest degree.

How does expert care in the commercial kitchen compare with that generally given food products in the average home?

Various elements contribute to spoil our foods. Heat, air, sunlight and proper temperature are conducive to the growth of food products and also to their proper preservation, but the spoilage of foods is often caused by exposure to dust and air, too much light, heat or cold.

Air carries dust, and dust contains organisms which attack food and cause decay. This is one very good reason why food products should not be exposed to dust in stores.

The housewife that does her own marketing must not feel that her task is finished when she puts her basket on the kitchen table The food must be properly put away and prepared for cooking and serving. The woman who orders by telephone must take care that there is some one at home to receive the purchases when delivered to make sure that the products are all of the quality and brand ordered, and to intelligently put them away until the time of using Vegetables and fruits give up their water when exposed to dry heat, and in moist heat they decay. Heat, food and moisture are ideal living conditions for the organisms which cause decay. Sanitary conditions ,and proper temperature prevent spoilage.

On the grocer's shelf certain foods spoil because the package is not air tight. The air and moisture penetrate the package and attack the contents, the food rapidly deteriorates. Fruits develop mould cereals and flour acquire weevil, coffee and tea lose strength, sugar and salt become lumpy.

The greatest loss from spoilage in the store comes from perishable and bulk foods. The package foods if properly sealed, only need to be stored in a moderate temperature to insure keeping but the bulk food is exposed to the air, damp, dust, human hands, and often such pests as mice and cock-roaches as well

In the home spoilage is due in a large measure to lack of proper care of the food products which are delivered in good condition.

Quality canned foods stored in a cool room will, of course, keep indefinitely. Always empty contents of the can as soon as you open it. Empty into glass of china dish or granite sauce pan as soon as you open it. The action of the air on food improves the flavor.

Butter, milk and salad vegetables should be put into the refrigerator immediately, exposure to heat and moisture causes rapid deterioration of such products.

We have heard so much about the spoilage of home canned foods The housewife lacks both the equipment and the exeprt skill which makes quality canned foods perfect.

Any of several factors or a combination of two or more may cause this spoilage

The food may not have been in the proper condition for canning; it may have been over ripe or under-ripe, or it may have been gathered long before it was canned. Possibly the product was not sterile when the can was sealed, and again the seal may have been imperfect

In short, food products spoil in the home through lack of proper care, but the housewife is now awake to the necessity of conserving all food materials and doubtless we will hereafter hear of no spoilage which she can prevent.

Russia Is Considered by Labor Body

GENEVA, Nov. 15.—(AP).—A distinct step towards preparing for the eventual adhesion of Russia to the International Labor Office was taken recently by the governing body of that organization. A resolution was adopted declaring that in view of the importance of preparing for official relations with Russia, and of the necessity of informing Russian labor groups of just what the International Labor Organization is accomplishing, full power is given to Albert Thomas, the director, to take any initiative he may deem desirable in connection with Russia.

Gained Ten Pounds

Mrs. George S. Hunter, of Columbus, Ga., says she suffered severely with female troubles.

"I had to go to bed and stay sometimes two weeks at a time," says Mrs. Hunter. "I could not work. My . . . were irregular and I got very thin. I went from 126 pounds down to less than 100. My mother had been a user of and she knew what a good medicine it was for this trouble, so she told me to get some and take it. I sent to the store after it and before I had taken the first bottle up I began to improve. My side hurt less and I began to mend in health. I took four bottles in all during the last ten months. Cardui acted as a fine tonic. . . I am well now. I have gained ten pounds and am still gaining."

CARDUI

PUBLIC STAMPEDE TO THE CLOSED CAR

The Snug Appeal of Closed Car Comfort Meets the Approval of the Public.

The trend to enclosed cars is becoming a stampede. Before 1925 rolls in you will see the whole motor industry admit Hudson-Essex's leadership in first introducing closed cars at open car prices, said W. R. Hawkins, Hudson and Essex dealer and distributor.

"Why have enclosed cars come?" he continued, and then answered:

"Because the motor car has changed from an article of luxury and recreation to one of every day utility. Mr. Average Motorist has to have a car today which will serve him in the stormiest weather as well as on the pleasantest days. He has wanted such a car for years, but it was not until the Hudson-Essex coach that he could have an enclosed car at less than an average $1,000 premium over an open one.

"Having $1,500 to spend, let us say, he much preferred to put it into fine performance and reliability in an open car than in mediocre or inferior ability in the only enclosed cars which the market offered at the price. The coach made that Hobson's choice no longer necessary. Essex offered him the finest standard of performance and car comforts at open car cost.

"The coach hit the market about three years ago, sponsored solely by Hudson-Essex. It met with a good deal of ridicule and much disbelief. But regardless of the opinions of 'experts,' the public wanted it, and its growth naturally followed.

"With the market about to be flooded with similar and imitative models, the Hudson-Essex organization wishes to remind the public that no organization in the industry has had one-tenth the experience in all the hundreds of details which go into coach building. Hudson-Essex is the organization that has gone through the problem of coach manufacture and solved them.

"Hudson-Essex created the coach —believed in it, put its bankroll on its success, improved it and put it across as a commercial success.

"When you think of coach, think of Hudson-Essex

"Especially at the sensationally reduced prices, the Hudson-Essex coaches are the outstanding values in the whole motor car field."

BELIEVED SHOT IN FEUD WAR

RICHMOND, Nov. 15.—With a pistol bullet in his body believed to have been fired by moonshiners because they suspected he was informing on them, J. W. Christ, 42, manager of a Cumberland Valley saw mill, is in a hospital here Friday with an even chance of recovery.

Christ was waylaid along a lonely road while motoring from Cartersville to Cumberland Courthouse, and was rushed here for treatment. A suspect is being held by the Cumberland authorities.

A similar shooting occurred in the spring of 1923. This was ascribed to a feud between two political factions one of which was headed by Robert Garrett and Larkin Garrett, brothers now serving penal terms for killing a Baptist preacher in Cumberland

WINS CASE BUT MUST SERVE TERM

RICHMOND, Nov. 15. —In the case of Staples vs. Commonwealth, decided by the supreme court of appeals appellant wins the case but the decision is not of much benefit to him. Lawyers say that the case establishes a precedent in Virginia.

Staples was found guilty in the circuit court of Albemarle of a second offense under the prohibition law, and was fined $500 and sentenced to serve six months in jail.

There was a motion in arrest of judgment and pending its hearing the convicted man was killed. Later the motion was argued and overruled and judgment was entered against the accused in his absence.

The appellate tribunal holds that this was error, as the accused must be present at every stage of a trial for felony when anything is done that may effect his rights, from arraignment until sentence.

But the court does not grant a new trial, but simply says that the judgment must me entered after Staples is brought before the trial court

SMALLPOX AT LOW EBB

RICHMOND, Nov. 15. —Smallpox is at its minimum at this time, Dr. Ennion G. Williams, state commissioner of health, stated. According to records in Dr. Williams' office the number of cases is lower that at any time this year, and below that of this time last year.

"Of course November is always a low month, but the smallpox chart shows a decrease over the same period last year, said Dr. Williams.

Asked as to the probable reason for the scarity of the disease, Dr. Williams said that a greater number of people had been vaccinated this year than heretofore, and this no doubt accounted for the small number of cases.
